

Lang & Reed 2014 'Two-Fourteen' Cabernet Franc – Napa Valley Accolades & Reviews

Wine Spectator: 93 Points

March 2018

“Combines power with finesse, giving Cabernet Franc a measure of torque and character rarely achieved in California, offering tiers of savory herb, dark berry, dusty loamy earth and sensual oak, taking a little edge off the chewy tannins. Best to aerate unless cellaring. Best from 2020 through 2030.”

Wine Advocate: 90 Points

January 2018

“This is a sexy, mid-weight wine with loads of blueberry and raspberry fruit, some floweriness, medium body and beautiful purity, texture and length. It is not a blockbuster by any means, but it is wonderfully well-done and delicious. Drink over the next 7-8 years”

Robert Parker, Wine Advocate

CGCW: 90 Points

January 2018

“Marked by fine fruity volume and featuring dark, well-ripened berries set against a backdrop of savory, tea-like herbaceousness and a whisper of woody sweetness, this year's edition of Two-Fourteen once again, as in the past, straddles the line between the brighter Loire Valley style and the fleshy richness prevalent in the Bordelaise version. It is moderately full-bodied and firmed by nominal tannins with just enough youthful rigidity to commend another year or two of age.”

Charlie Olken, Connoisseurs' Guide to California Wine

Vinography Unboxed: 9-9.5 out of 10 Points

November 2017

“Offers a tight structure and rich core of earth and mineral-laced dried berry and herb, cedar and tobacco notes. Shows good length, with firm, gripping tannins. Drink now through 2023.”
